YOU NOMINATE, YOU VOTE, WE DONATE!

Yolo FCU is hosting an online giving program called 'Give a Click' that will grant funds in the amount of $1,500 to a Yolo County non-profit agency. We encourage you to help us recognize the stories and work of deserving non-profits and cooperatives within our community by nominating them for this grant. Each quarter we'll accept nominations on behalf of these organizations, and after tallying your online votes, Yolo FCU will make a donation of $1,500 to the winning organization. Nomination forms are available July 1-31 at www.yolofcu.org.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Congratulations to Yolo Family Resource Center, who was the winning recipient of our first quarter Give a Click grant!

President's Corner

There has always been debate over the power of marketing and advertising because of the influence it can have on people to buy things they may not need or can't afford. Well, the debate is over and it has been proven that we buy stuff from companies that have the best ads. The big banks and credit card companies believe in the power of marketing and hire only the best. So, when the legislature moved to protect consumers with the Credit Card Accountability, Responsibility, and Disclosure (CARD) Act of 2009, they were clearly going up against the best in the world.

To be fair, the big banks, like everyone else, conformed to the new legislative requirements and added the necessary disclosures, like listing the actual costs of paying off a credit card balance and a few other things. However, while the banks told us how concerned they were and about all the wonderful changes they made and gave us the information needed to make informed decisions in the big print, the small print was a different story. Unfortunately, some consumer groups fell for this and even congratulated banks for being consumer activists! Readers Digest recently printed a good article on how banks and credit card companies avoided the law to lower credit limits without warning, jack up or switch interest rates with short notice and increase cash advance fees.

As boring as it may sound, Yolo FCU credit cards and policies look exactly like they did before the law. But if it means protecting our members, we're okay with boring!

While you should always be on the lookout for a good deal, just be mindful of your reasons for buying that product. Is it something you really need or are you listening to a slick advertisement that has the ability to make lead look like gold? Make sure you watch your wallet! Me, I would rather pay a good price with someone I trust than go for a seemingly killer deal with someone I have to worry about. Trust is a very big deal here at Yolo FCU. It has been in our DNA from the very day we were founded. In fact, our founders were employees looking for a "bank" they could trust to do the right thing, and after 56 years our members still find someone they can trust right here at Yolo FCU.

Thank you for giving us your trust! Have a great summer!
